All the Massachusetts congressmen are to be given a banquet in Boston on Saturday evening next. To a Massachusetts congressman life should be worth living, if the banquet comes often enough.

The democratic party is a good deal like the state of Virginia. "It is hunting around for means that will enable her to pay her debts at forty cents on the dollar and at the same time keep her conscience at par."

During last week the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada was increased 330,000 bushels of wheat, 1,822,000 bushels of corn and 338,535 bushels of oats, and decreased 12,407 bushels of rye and 109,523 bushels of barley.

The new city officers of Watertown met on Saturday evening, selected minor officials, and made the necessary arrangements, when the mayor and the junior aldermen from each ward resigned to escape legal proceedings on the repudiated railroad debt.

Leo Hartman, the Russian Nihilist, denounces the new extradition treaty framed between the United States and Russia. If there is anything that is an avowed nihilist dislikes it is to have difficulties placed in the way of dynamite practice.

A conspiracy has been discovered among the trainmen on the Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis railroad (the Panhandle road) to rob freight trains. About a hundred are involved in the conspiracy, fifty-six of whom are now in jail at Pittsburgh, and others are in custody at other towns on the line of the road.

The experiment of using coal oil for fuel on a locomotive has been tried at Mendonville, Pa., with apparent success. Five gallons an hour being consumed sufficient. At this rate an engine could be run two hours for 50 cents, and the saving in fuel would only be equal by the freedom from cinders and coal smoke.

The complications caused by the interstate commerce act are already having an injurious effect upon some of the Pittsburgh iron mills. One firm had a large contract for sheet-iron to be shipped to California, but freight rates have been so increased as to interfere with its fulfillment. Other mills with western contracts will suspend unless they get better rates.

Roscoe Conkling is to make a speech at Pittsburgh on the anniversary of General Grant's birthday, April 27, concerning which a good deal of curiosity is expressed in certain quarters. In spite of Conkling's long abstinence from politics, his friends still have faith that he will some time regain his old prestige and power. But apparently Mr. Conkling is more concerned about law and money making than about politics just now.

A very timely remark from the Chicago Tribune: During the Blaine canvass every mugwump and bigot said that the Irish-American who favored the Maine man's election were the lawless element of their race. The fact was and is the contrary. The independent, fair-minded men of Irish birth or descent who had American principles were for Blaine. In Chicago they have labored with zeal for good local government. Messrs. Alexander Sullivan, John F. Finerty, M. P. Brady, Dennis O'Connor, and their friends were earnest supporters of the new election law which made possible the removal of Rarickism from Chicago politics, and they were all uncompromising supporters of Blaine in the fight to keep Chicago an American city over which no red flag shall float. Their disinterestedness deserves all the greater acknowledgment since it so happened that, owing to questions of loyalty, in the make-up of the republican city ticket there was no Irish-American among the nominees.

The Knights of Labor, or the Union Labor party, of Chicago, have been made quite sick by the recent defeat of their socialist brethren, and have determined to abandon the reds. They should have done this months ago, and there would have been no Haymarket massacre and riot in Milwaukee. The agitation of the labor question and the encouragements of strikes, have led almost directly to the disgraceful scenes in the large cities. If the United Labor party or the Knights of Labor, want to crush anarchy and keep themselves free from the disgrace which attaches to the socialists and their methods, let them withdraw from these lazy mischief makers, and set like intelligent and industrious workmen. They will then have the sympathy and the support of the people, and the moral influence of such wide conduct will greatly redound to the honor of the working classes. They can't resolve themselves into a separate political party without drawing into their ranks the followers of Grottkan, and the Chicago anarchists, and the Henry George disciples and all those who cause strikes and create riots.

About a year ago, in Philadelphia, a company was organized to search for an immense treasure sunk in Vigo Bay, on the northwest coast of Spain. It was when Mexico and Peru were yielding to their Spanish conquerors enormous revenues of the precious metals and the treasure fleets, although guarded by ships of war, were often beset by the English cruisers. On the 23d of October, 1702, a number of Spanish galleons loaded with gold and silver and guarded by twenty-three French war ships, under command of Admiral Chateau-Renaud, sailed in Vigo Bay, and pressed by an English fleet. The French were allies of Spain, and both were at war with England. The English squadron followed close upon the retreating allies and a battle was fought in which the allies were badly worsted. Then, to keep the treasure from falling into the hands of the English, the galleons were scuttled and went to the bottom with their enormous wealth of bullion and doubloons. It was never recovered, and it is this precious deposit that the company referred to has attempted to find. So far, no success has attended the enterprise. The vessels were sunk in an open bay in deep water, and not even the exact locality is known. The sea is stormy a great portion of the time, and diving operations are carried on with great difficulty. The undertaking is a very doubtful one at best, but success is not, of course, beyond the bounds of possibility. Doubtless the search will keep up the work as long as their funds hold out. It is quite an interesting and romantic quest.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT.

What the Newspapers Say of Men and Women of More or Less Fame.

Mark Twain talks of endowing a home for pumped out humorists.

Gen. Boulanger's wife is a rabid hater of England and everything English.

Smith Higgins is the king of the dry goods business of New York.

M. de Lesseps is about to bring out a volume of "Souvenirs" covering a period of forty years in his eventful life.

Abraham Ben Ahmar, an Algerian who has just died, killed eighty lions and as many panthers during his life.

Concellan W. J. Florence is going to London and will there be the guest of Henry Irving.

The health of James D. Fish continues to grow worse, and it is thought that he will be perished to avoid his death in prison.

Anna Dickinson says she has had several offers to go upon the dramatic stage. She thinks she will go to Europe.

Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker carries the idea of female emancipation so far as to demand that half the police force in large cities consist of women.

The Cardiff (Wales) Western Mail announces the death at the age of 64 of Mr. C. James Dyer, of the firm of J. & P. Dyer, the makers of the famous Worcester sauce.

Francis Anderson, the successor of Mr. B. in the office of the Society of Jesus, is famous as a linguist. He speaks and writes every important language in the world.

Bob Foul, who killed Jesse James, is employed as a waiter in a Santa Fe hotel. Bob Foul and his brother, the old James, are also in Santa Fe, dead, broken, and hangers on about the saloons.

Mrs. Helen Gougar has sent an open letter to the women of Kansas, who are to vote in the municipal elections, saying: "Do not give your name or your name, but the one by which you are christened."

THEVES BY THE SCORE.

PANHANDLE TRAIN CREWS PERMEATED WITH PECULATION.

A Great System of Robbery Discovered and Fifty-Six of the Criminals Run in.

About One Hundred Crows Involved in the Villainy. Who Stealing Aggregate $300,000—Plausible Scams at the Jail When Mothers, Wives and Sisters Visit the Accused Men—Engineers and Firemen Not Implicated.

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—In the history of railroading no greater combination of systematic peculation has been discovered, and no more remarkable criminal combination run from cover than was disclosed Monday among the conductors, flagmen and brakemen employed on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis division of the Pennsylvania company. An official of the company in this city acknowledged Monday evening that for two years the company has been paying out to these thieves an average of $300 per day.

John H. Hampton, Esq., attorney of the Pennsylvania company, was sent Monday morning in the office of the detective agency where, sitting amidst a heterogeneous collection of the plunder, he said: "These robbers have been carried on systematically for several years. The company has long been aware that there was a leakage somewhere, and as early as September, 1885, they quietly commenced investigations. 'Detectives were placed on trains where the goods could be watched and the thieves caught. We had already discovered that the culprits were employees of the company. In September there were eighty crews on freight trains on the Panhandle railroad coming into Pittsburgh. Of these eighty crews, no less than seventy-five were found to be crooked. A crew consists of a conductor, flagman and two brakemen. In some cases all the men were involved, in others only part. The statement that the culprits were from mixed up in the railroads is wrong; not a single one is involved. The goods were obtained in various ways. In some instances the goods were broken, while in others the goods were used to cut a hole in the end of the car through which the men crawled and took what they could. They then reported the car as bad, claiming that the hole had been made by accident."

"The operations were all the result of combination. Arrangements were carefully made, and each man was assigned to his particular part of the work in much the same way as a bank robbery is conducted by professional criminals. I do not know that the members of the combination were organized anything of that kind, but it is certain that a thorough understanding existed among them, and they acted in concert to cover each other's misdoings. A thing which alarmed us more than anything else was that they stole large quantities of silver and brass, and in two cases they needed vessels to hold the liquor, so they stole milk cans and kept them. Men were probably derelict drunk on duty, and the probability of disaster was something frightful to contemplate."

"All kinds of goods were stolen, including sewing machines, guns, revolvers, cutlery, silverware, cigars, clothing, liquors, and other articles of value. In every instance the articles that can be carried on a car were quickly removed. The depredations were committed all along the road, and the losses ran as far west as Denver. 'Ponies' were established in this city, where the property was taken and then sold, the money being divided among the crews. It is impossible to give the aggregate value of the property stolen, but it will not reach $300,000."

It seems that the detectives have obtained all the information they wanted, it was determined to strike the blow Monday morning. Accordingly at the appointed time trains from the west were held in the yard, and were at once boarded by detectives and other officers armed with warrants. They knew their men and the arrests were rapidly made. Besides this a number of houses in various parts of the city were raided during the day and a large quantity of goods recovered. Every man arrested had stolen goods somewhere. Among the prisoners are several desperate characters, who were wanted by the police for other offenses. They were all armed, and when taken by surprise resisted arrest. Numbers were overpowered, however, and all were safely lodged in jail.

"The most important arrest made here was Brakeman Young. He called at the jail to see one of the prisoners and was immediately locked up. At first he protested that he was innocent, but finally admitted that he had a large lot of stolen property at his home, and told how the goods had come into his possession. His confession will, it is said, convict thirteen crooks.

The work went on vigorously all Monday and at a late hour in the evening, fifty-six conductors, flagmen and brakemen had been locked up in the county jail. Twenty-eight bags of stolen goods, well filled, together with over a ton of loose plunder, have been confiscated and placed in Detective Gilkison's office, carefully labeled. The trucks will be opened and contents examined."

There was but little work done in the Panhandle yard in this city Monday, and at one time twenty-four deserted trains were piled together on the sidings. Late in the day, however, with the help of yardmen, trains were sent out. A large number of loaded cars are still in the yards, and it is not likely that trains will be running with regularity for a day or two.

In making search to the residences and friends for plunder, the detectives in several instances surprised the friends of the incarcerated men engaged in destroying all positive evidences of guilt remaining.

The scenes at the county jail when wives or friends called to see or inquire for those dear to them beggars description. Orders had been issued that no one could see or converse with the prisoners. At a later hour the order was rescinded, and the immediate friends of the prisoners were admitted, and at a time. The waiting-room was crowded with women, many of whom had never before gazed upon the iron bars of a cell. When finally admitted to the cage, and a sister or wife looked up to the man who had been the prisoners of the world, the scene was a touching one. Some of the men, hardy and robust, broke completely down when a mother, a wife, or a sister looked up to them. The exclamation was invariably put was, "Oh, I know you are not guilty; it's a mistake, and you will surely be released soon!" The prisoners invariably endeavored to console their relatives by repeating that they were not guilty of the charges that had been made against them. Each relative had but a short time to talk with the prisoners, and then walked out of the jail with bowed head and tear-stained face.

The following is the official list of names of the arrested parties, together with the number of charges against them up to 6 o'clock Monday evening: T. C. Shay, 5 charges; George Morris, 12; R. Mackay, 4; John Martin, 3; William East, 10; H. R. Coon, 4; W. C. Martin, 10; J. P. Wright, 1; Joe Hastings, 1; William Bolls, 9; A. Griffith, 1; John Kirkwood, 10; J. T. Horses boarded at reasonable rates, and all kinds of feed at low prices at J. H. Miles' board and feed stable on South Park street. A good lumber wagon for sale cheap. Also a good horse six years old, sound and kind; weight 1,175 pounds.

Perhaps you think it is a mile to Forest Park. Well, it isn't! Just drive out on Court Street past the big culvert and there it is, on the right. What's the sense of paying four or five hundred dollars for a lot a mile and a half from the high school when you can get one for half that money only two blocks away, with the streets graded and trees set out. Come and see us before you buy.

At Washington street green house, floral designs made on short notice. All varieties of house plants for bedding purposes at reasonable rates. Mikado tomato, cabbage and cauliflower now ready. 24 Washington St. corner West Bluff.

Wanted.—To rent a cottage of four or five rooms for family of two, within six or eight blocks of this office. Apply to Clinton, at this office.

Building lots for sale. The most desirable locations in the city of Janesville, on Milton avenue, Milwaukee avenue and other adjoining streets and streets near to the schools and horse cars. Streets well graded; no engines or locomotives near; no railway crossing. Also, eligible lots on River and Franklin streets, in the fourth ward. Now is the time for every family to secure a homestead. Prices of lots very favorable. J. J. R. PEARCE.

Oranges, bananas, strawberries, and other choice fruit, at Van Kirk Bros., also sweet potatoes, pig plant, lettuce, young onions, green peas, spinach, radishes, cucumbers, and cabbages.

Another reduction in maple wood. BLAIR & GOWDER.

Try the new meat market at W. Q. Barnes' old stand on Milwaukee street. Messrs. Yahn Bros. are prepared to furnish choice meats of all description at reasonable prices.

Auction: The Wisconsin Shoe Company will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, on Saturday, April 12th, 1887, at 2 o'clock p. m., at their factory on South Main street, in the city of Janesville, Wis., the house and lot belonging to said company, and adjoining said factory grounds on the north. The buildings are house two stories high with wing and basement, and a large barn. Terms easy and made known on day of sale.
